

Katja Iversen

President/CEO of Women Deliver

Katja Iversen is the President/CEO of Women Deliver – a leading global advocate for investment in gender equality and the health and rights of girls and women, with a specific focus on maternal, sexual and reproductive health and rights. Iversen, an internationally recognized expert on development, advocacy and communications, has more than 25 years of experience working in NGOs, corporates and United Nations agencies. Previously, she held the position as Chief of Strategic Communication and Public Advocacy with UNICEF, a position she came to after almost six years of leading the team responsible for advocacy and communication on reproductive health with UNFPA.

 @Katja_Iversen

She holds a master's degree in communications, bachelor's degree in public administration and certificates in management, conflict resolution, and international development.

Iversen has worked in global development for more than 20 years and has an extensive network within the UN, development communities, and global media. She has counseled and trained multiple Fortune 500 executives on cross cultural management and cross cultural communication. She is a member of the Unilever Sustainability Advisory Council, the MIT Women & Technology Solve Leadership Group, an International Gender Champion and recently a member of President Macron's G7 Gender Equality Advisory Council. Iversen was named 2018 Dane of the Year and included in the top 10 of Apolitical's Top 100 Most Influential People in Gender Policy. She is also a sought lecturer and speaker.